

FURTHER READING

Since this book is not a history of London but an anthology of literary extracts that the multifaceted nature of London and Londoners has inspired, the sections of 'Further Reading' have been set out in the following way. Works listed in Part 1 have been selected because they provide an historical context to extracts in the book. Those in Part 2 are modern editions of works from which the extracts have been chosen, thus enabling the reader to explore further their descriptions of London and London life. London is the place of publication unless otherwise stated.
